Editors Point of View

Kathryn Ingram

As an agriculture teacher, I have watched as my students lost opportunities and missed many milestone events due to Covid19. The ever-changing policies regarding events and gatherings have negatively affected our youth.

I wanted to take this opportunity to express appreciation for the determination and hard work of the event coordinators for the Southeast Regional, Hereford Junior National, the upcoming TJHA show, and Tennessee Beef Expo.

These shows are about so much more than a banner. Family memories and friendships are forged between the early morning washings and taking the entire string (at once) to tie-outs. The work ethic and confidence that youth gain from participating in livestock shows transcend into their school and future careers. There are so many lessons in life that cannot be learned in a classroom.

The Southeast Regional continued on the same timeline in the same location, which I consider a major feat for this day and time. Our Tennessee juniors did very well at this event. Highlights from the Southeastern Regional are covered in more detail later on in this issue.

Hats off to the AJHA and AHA for managing to relocate the Junior National at the last minute. I cannot imagine the overtime hours and planning it took to pull this off. Thank you for making our youth a priority. This issue went to print just as the Junior National was finishing up, but I do want to congratulate Libby Rushton of Waverly, Tennessee for being named to the American Junior Hereford Association Board of Directors.

We need to also be thankful to the folks at Wilson county for being willing to continue with the livestock shows despite the cancellation of the fair. I know the show committees for the THA and TJHA State shows have been working hard on these events. These shows will take place the weekend of Aug. 14 -15.

Aaron Fisher deserves appreciation for his diligence in rescheduling the Tennessee Livestock Expositions. I know he faced opposition as he made plans to go ahead with the shows. Hopefully, all of these events will take place in August as planned. However, 2020 has shown that you never know what tomorrow might bring.

The production of this issue allowed me to learn more about the Stan East family, our 2020 THA family of the year. I think you will enjoy the feature article about this Hereford family.

The discovery of Mandibulofacial Dysostosis (MD) will affect many of our breeding programs. This discovery will have some serious repercussions for Hereford producers. The article on page 9 discusses our options as we go forward.

Hope you enjoy the 2020 Summer THA Newsletter!

Mandibulofacial Dysostosis

Kathryn Ingram

Mandibulofacial Dysostosis (MD), the latest genetic defect discovered in Hereford cattle, will affect many, if not most Hereford breeders in our area. The disorder, which causes facial defects that prevent the calf from nursing normally, is an autosomal recessive trait. This means both parents must be carriers and pass that gene on to their offspring for the disorder to occur.

Two of the carriers, NJW 73S W18 HOMETOWN 10Y ET (43214853) and NJW 73S W18 HOMETOWN 8Y ET (43214852), have been used extensively by Hereford breeders because of the high quality phenotypical and genetic traits they have passed on to their offspring. These bulls have sired many calves that have become prominent AI sires. In other words, there is a significant number of potential carriers out there. For example, in our small herd we have females sired by three different 10Y sons. Approximately 17% of our females trace back to 10Y.

Many breeders have a much larger percentage of potential carriers. As of press time, there is still not a standard test for MD. Semen testing is currently available, but a test for females is not. Timelines for the development of a commercial test have not been established.

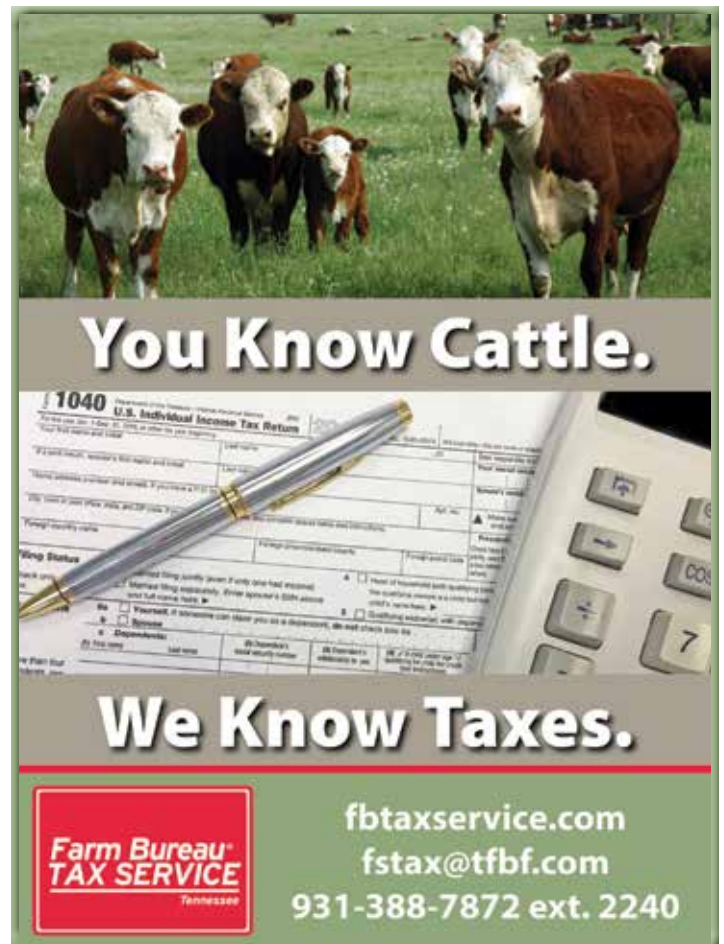

So now what? These genetics have improved the quality of our cattle. Maybe we need to be careful that we are not “throwing the baby out with the bath water”. For now, utilizing an outcross bull that is MD free will prevent the production of any calves with the defect. We are considering breeding our potential carrier heifers to an Angus bull while we wait on the test.

Eventually, we will be able to identify the carriers. Producers will then have to determine how they will handle the carriers within their herd. Some will want to immediately cull all carriers. However, this may not be financially feasible for some Hereford breeders. Breeding programs can be designed to prevent carriers from being mated. With diligent testing we can eventually keep the “good” genetics of this bloodline and phase out the carriers in our herds over time.

Unfortunately, this will not be the last genetic defect to be discovered. The next time you purchase a herd bull or buy semen, study the pedigree carefully. It may not be the best choice to cross a cow and bull that have the same grandsire. While it is tempting to use linebreeding to improve certain traits, it also increases the chances of revealing genetic defects.

With time this problem will be resolved. For now we will all have to balance our decisions based on what is financially sound for our operations.

East Polled Herefords

—The THA 2020 Family of the Year

by Stan Webster and Kathryn Ingram

Stan East, Mae Massengille, Connie East, Margaret East Massengille and Beau Massengille

The 2020 Tennessee Hereford Association family of the year is Stan and Connie East of East Polled Herefords. The East's currently operate a herd of 30 Polled Herefords in Carthage, Tennessee. They have been married for 38 years and have one daughter, Margaret. Margaret is married to Beau Massengille and they live in Lebanon with their daughter, Mae. Stan is the Maintenance Coordinator for the Metro Nashville Airport Authority where he has worked for the past 25 years. Connie is a retired educator of the Smith County School System, where she taught for 32 years.

Stan is originally from Hartsville. He did not grow up on a beef cattle operation but developed a strong work ethic by playing football (made it to the state play-offs all four years), mowing yards, and working in tobacco, hay, and row crops. After getting married, Stan worked on Connie's family farm to pay for his first Polled Hereford cow.

Stan and Connie chose the Hereford breed primarily because of their disposition. He had worked around Herefords while growing up and gained an appreciation for the benefits of the Hereford's easy-going nature. They wanted a breed that their daughter, Margaret, could safely help care for and show.

Stan's base of operations began by providing labor and stewardship for a neighbor's land in exchange for utilizing that land for his growing cattle herd. The East's now own a 10-acre farm, while still utilizing their neighbor's land for pasture and hay.

The East's continue to improve their herd's genetics each year by utilizing artificial insemination. Stan feels satisfied that each calf-crop is better than the last. As a seedstock producer, their goal is to continually improve the quality of the cattle to provide good, sound cattle for their customers.

When asked about his favorite part of being in the cattle industry, Stan answered "Meeting the great friends I have made." He said several people helped as he and Connie built their herd. He is especially grateful for the guidance that Phil Sloan, Stan Webster, and Jim Coley have provided over the years.

I asked Stan if he had any advice for someone from a non-cattle background getting started in the industry. His response was "Decide what type of cattle operation you hope to achieve. Learn all you can about producing what the consumers want. Set goals that you can achieve. Find someone who will help you grow in the industry. Don't mind staying up late and getting up early checking on their cattle."

Stan has chosen to give back to the cattle industry and his community by serving in a variety of leadership roles. He has been the cattle superintendent at the Smith County Fair for the past 12 years and has served on the Smith County Agriculture Committee. He is currently serving his third term as President of the Smith County Cattlemen's Association, this association also recognized him as Producer of the Year in 2007. He is a member of the Smith Farmer's Co-op and serves as President of the Middle Tennessee Hereford Association.

Congratulations to the Stan East family and thank you for your dedication to the Hereford industry.

President Comments

Jeremiah Malon

I hope this is finding you well this late summer! I am still adjusting to our new Covid19 World, which really began for us the week following our State Meeting! It has been a rollercoaster of events. It has consumed many of our breeders in one way or the other. It is still a highly volatile situation but Hereford breeders, like our cattle are the best at dealing with ever-changing environments!

I have visited with many breeders like myself, whose lives have not changed much throughout the Covid19 months. We are all taking about the next bulls to use AI. How we might flush our Donors. What new defect might change everything for us next month.

Cow work has not changed either! Hay is still the same. Worrying about the bills, rain, wind, and crop prices this fall. Most of all our Faith has not wavered either!

Right now, we are staying focused on the Fall! Currently Tennessee is open for business. Schools are ready to go back for most all of our kids. Our State Hereford show is still on schedule for Lebanon, Tennessee. The East Tennessee Polled Hereford Kick-Off Classic will be in White Pine on August 22. Eric Walker's Production Sale is ready for Labor Day! The Fall Hereford Influence Feeder Calf sale is scheduled for November 4th. Many more events are business as usual.

I look forward to seeing you guys throughout the fall.

Jeremiah Malon

P.S.

Even though our world is crazy, we are strong! Riots and looting visited parts of our state. It is becoming clearer that some people hate agriculture and everyone in it but have no idea how to feed themselves or where their food comes from. It has never been a more critical time to Get Out and Vote! The farming life needs every one of us to stand and be counted!

KIRKPATRICK PRESENTED CONTINUING SERVICE AWARD

MANHATTAN, Kan. – The Beef Improvement Federation (BIF) presented David Kirkpatrick, Knoxville, Tennessee, a BIF Continuing Service Award June 10 during the group's 52nd annual meeting and symposium hosted online.

Continuing Service Award winners have made major contributions to the BIF organization. This includes serving on the board of directors, speaking at BIF conventions, working on BIF guidelines and other behind-the-scenes activities. BIF is a volunteer organization; it is this contribution of time and passion for the beef cattle industry that moves BIF forward.

Kirkpatrick, a native of Shattuck, Oklahoma, earned his bachelor's degree from Oklahoma State University, master's from New Mexico State University, and doctorate from the University of Tennessee. Kirkpatrick dedicated his entire career as genetics extension leader for the University of Tennessee. He regularly attends the BIF Research Symposium and Convention and was committee chairman for the 1989 convention in Nashville, Tennessee.

A seasoned leader, Kirkpatrick has served in several industry leadership roles. While serving as the superintendent of the National 4-H Livestock Judging Contest, he was responsible for including performance data on judging classes. Kirkpatrick has served as director of the Tennessee Bull Evaluation Station for nearly four decades and established the criteria for "genetically superior" bulls in each breed for the three categories of calving ease, balance and terminal sires. In addition, he developed extension educational programs to teach producers how to use expected progeny differences (EPDs) and conducted extension training sessions and producer meetings across Tennessee.

The Tennessee Agricultural Enhancement Program (TAEP) was established by the Tennessee legislature and included major funding for beef cattle genetics; in 2016, Kirkpatrick worked with TAEP administrators to increase funding for bulls with genomically enhanced (GE) EPDs, allowing producers to receive 25% more funding to purchase bulls with GE EPDs. In 2018, he developed an online bull calculator to determine cost share eligibility.

"The goal for this program has been to improve Tennessee cattle genetics – increasing the quality, value, marketability and reputation of Tennessee cattle," says Gordon Jones, BIF board member. "Dr. Kirkpatrick has been the major educational leader in accomplishing this goal."

To date, more than 1,200 beef producers, academia and industry representatives have registered to participate in the organization's 52nd Annual Research Symposium — Online. BIF's mission is to help improve the industry by promoting greater acceptance of beef cattle performance evaluation.

For more information about this year's symposium, including additional award winners and coverage of meeting and tours, visit BeefImprovement.org/symposium.
